UNEXPECTED SICILY

MANDRAROSSA SHINES AT THE DECANTER WORLD WINE AWARD

FIANO TERRE SICILIANE 2021 IS AMONG THE “BEST IN SHOW” AT THE 2022 EDITION

A new accolade for the Unexpected Sicily of Mandrarossa, Cantine Settesoli's premium brand that won the DWWA Best in Show with an unusual grape variety for the Sicilian coast: Fiano.

Fiano Terre Siciliane 2021 Bio won a Platinum Medal and scored 97/100, ranking among the 50 Best in Show of 2022. This recognition was conferred by the jury to wines that stood out among the 18,244 samples tasted.

This marks a new milestone for the winery from Menfi: Mandrarossa is the only Sicilian company to obtain one of the 8 Best in Show awards given to Italy during the 2022 edition of this prestigious wine competition.

THE WINE

Fiano Terre Siciliane 2021 is one of the white wines that make up the Mandrarossa Monovarietal line, which has organic certification.

NOTES FROM DWWA

"Drunk as long ago as the thirteenth century (by Emperor Frederic II) yet abandoned and almost extinct by the 1970s, the Campanian variety Fiano's story prefigures that of the Northern Rhone's Viognier. There's a similarity in profile, too, notably the variety's captivating scent, which is much in evidence in the irresistibly floral aromas of this Value Best in Show from Sicily. In the mouth, though, Fiano often has an acidic poise and freshness all of its own, combined with haunting flavours of citrus, nougat and grenadine -- and more of those fresh aromatic flowers. All of those notes are packed exuberantly into this energetic young wine. Submissive and shy it isn't -- but there's Italian class here too"
